NEWS OF THE MORNING.

The Secretary of the Senate has decided to withhold Senator Sharon's back pay.

The press in Germany is indulging in warlike talk against Russia and France.

The annual sale of Plymouth Church pews took place on Tuesday, and Rev. Beecher welcomed the bidders. The total amount realized was $40,023, which is just $700 less than the amount realized last year.

A concurrent resolution has passed the California Legislature recommending the appointment of John F. Swift as Minister to China.

Governor Perkins was inaugurated in Sacramento yesterday with the usual ceremonies.

Governor Long of Massachusetts was inaugurated yesterday and delivered his message.

The Fusionists organized the Maine Legislature.

DISTURBED.

California is just now in a most unsatisfactory state of mind. The New Constitution has upset everything and made every industry feel so insecure and uncertain that all are at a standstill. Mining languishes because of the dangers of interference by the Legislature, and the rumor that a man from Ventura, a purely agricultural country, would be Chairman of the Senate Committee on Mines had added to their uneasiness. The same feeling pervades all other industries, and capital is but up until it can see its way clear. The Legislature now in session is expected to do great things toward restoring confidence, but will it succeed? In conversation with a Senator from a neighboring California county a few days since we were assured that he felt afraid to go to Sacramento, knowing how much was expected of the Legislature and how little he feared they could do to satisfy, in one short session. This adopting new Constitutions is not so funny as some might suppose, though they do make things interesting.

The Mormons are becoming more defiant than ever. John Taylor, virtual head of the church, is reported to have defied the United States, the other day, to suppress polygamy, as it was, "ordained by God," and called upon all within the sound of his voice to sustain him in his resistance to the law. Five thousand people help up their hands, women even holding up the hands of the infants in their arms.

Gen. Trevino telegraphs that Apache Indians had defeated 200 American troops near the Mexican line, and an expedition has marched from the city of Chihuahua against the American Indians who had invaded the State of Chihuahua. Col. Reyes has defeated the revolutionists in Tepic, inflicting heavy loss upon them.

A most interesting Masonic relic was sold in Toronto the other day—the Masonic certificate of Souter Johnny of Burns' "Tam O'Shanter." It was issued by St. James' Lodge, Ays, in 1790, and pinned to one corner was what was said to be a lock of Highland Mary's hair. The curiosity brought $178.

The late war with Russia has apparently not diminished the gross luxury of the Sultan and his Pashas in Constantinople. Their extravagance is notorious as ever, their harems being crowded with slaves. There is much suffering among the lower classes of the people and the inferior officers.

At a large meeting of the unemployed men of London yesterday, held at Islington, a resolution was carried urging the authorities to provide them with temporary employment. Also one asking for contributions to relieve the prevailing great distress. A resolution in favor of emigration was rejected.

Two unsuccessful attempts were made to wreck a train on the New York Central railroad, between Niagara Falls and Tonawanda, by placing rails and ties on the track. The locomotive brushed aside one obstruction and the train was brought to a standstill as it reached the other. No arrests.

A bet was made in Carson that inside of six months Union Consolidated would be selling for $500 a share. The faith of some people is remarkable.

The latest toast: "Drink this and you'll never die, but pine away like a daisy."

Mr. E. W. Hayden will deliver the address before the Reform Club on Saturday evening.

During his journey to Mexico, says the New York Tribune, General Grant will have an opportunity to revisit the scenes of his first military exploits. He will land at Vera Cruz, which as a young Lieutenant of Infantry he helped capture in 1846, and go over the ground between that place and the City of Mexico which he traversed with General Scott's gallant little army, and will be able to revive his memory of the brilliant victories of Churubusco, Chapultepec and Molino del Rey. General Grant's career in Mexico has been almost forgotten in the light of his great achievements during the war of the rebellion. It is worth while now to recall the fact that it was peculiarly creditable. He was only 23 years old when, as a stripling officer just out of West Point, he was sent to Texas with his regiment. He fought at Palo Alto, Resaca de la Palma and Monterey, and then went to join Scott before Vera Cruz. He missed the battle of Buena Vista by this transfer, but with the single exception of that engagement, he took part in every battle of the war. There were few other officers who had the luck to be where the fighting was hardest from the beginning to the end of that struggle. Molino del Rey gave him his promotion to a First-Lieutenancy, and his behavior at Chapultepec earned him a brevet Captaincy. No doubt those promotions gave him more pleasure than all the honors he has since received.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Who burnt the Mormon Temple at Nauvoo, and to what church did he belong? 2. Is there any perceptible difference in the amount of crime committed in the States where capital punishment has been abolished and where it is still in force.

People of all sorts were in the opposition to the Mormons, and the burning of the temple can hardly be traced to any one person. 2. It is generally believed that capital punishment checks atrocious crime, but it is so complicated with the administration of law, that an agreement is not reached as to the effect of a given law on its own merits.

1. Was there ever a majority of colored representatives in any of the Southern Legislatures. If not, what has been the largest number of colored representatives in several of the Southern States? 2. Have any of the Indians been granted the right of suffrage.

Ans.—1. Yes; in the South Carolina Legislature of 1870, and in one or two other instances. In the South Carolina Constitutional Convention of 1867 there were 63 colored members and 34 whites. 2. In some of the States Indians have been allowed to vote in State elections.

CONNECTICUT TRAMP LAW.

The following is a copy of the Connecticut "Tramp Law." The salutary influence of this statute is endorsed by the people of Connecticut, who are now comparatively free from the nuisance of indolent, begging tramps:

AN ACT CONCERNING TRAMPS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

SECTION 1. Every tramp shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison not more than one year.

SEC. 2. All transient persons who roam about from place to place, begging, and all vagrants living without labor, or visible means of support, who stroll over the country without lawful occasion, shall be held to be tramps without the meaning of this Act.

SEC. 3. Any act of beggary or vagrancy by any person not a resident of this State, shall be prima facie evidence that the person committing the same is a tramp within the meaning of this Act.

SEC. 4. Any tramp who shall willfully and maliciously injure any person, where such offense is not now punishable by imprisonment in the State Prison, or shall be found carrying any firearm or other dangerous weapon, shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison not more than three years.

SEC. 5. Any sheriff, deputy-sheriff, constable, special constable, or policeman, upon view of any offence described in this Act, or speedy information thereof, may, without warrant apprehend the offender and take him before any competent authority for examination, and on his conviction shall be entitled to a reward of five dollars therefor, to be paid by the State.

SEC. 6. All mayors, wardens, and selectmen are empowered and required to appoint special constables whose duty it shall be to arrest and prosecute all tramps in their respective cities, boroughs, and towns.

SEC. 7. This Act shall not apply to any female or minor under the age of sixteen years, nor to any blind person, nor to any beggar roving within the limits of the town in which he resides.

SEC. 8. Upon the passage of this Act, the Secretary of State shall cause to be printed durable copies of this Act to be sent to the several town clerks, who shall cause the same to be posted in at least twelve conspicuous places, six of which shall be in the public highway.

SEC. 9. This Act shall take effect on the 28th day of April 1879.

Approved March 27, 1879.

Miss Miller, of Ferris, Texas, chloroformed her father's dogs and eloped with the young man whom her father had forbidden the premises. The probabilities are that a year hence she will conclude that her life would have been less miserable if she had chloroformed the young man and eloped with her father's dogs.—[Norristown Herald.

It doesn't hurt a good man to have his character investigated; neither does it hurt a gold coin to try its ring on the counter.

The hardest thing in the world to do so constantly that you can do it well is to mind your own business.

A lie will die of neglect sooner than in any other way. The only reason why some lies grow so large and stout is that everybody pets and feeds them.

A hot temper will make greater havoc in a household and turn things more completely upside down than a kerosene explosion.

Europeans think, and perhaps justly, that we Americans are a bit conceited in our valuation of ourselves. An Englishman quoted a statement made by a Westerner in proof of this criticism. He did not see that it was a joke, but regarded it as a matter of fact assertion. "Why," said he, "I heard the other day of one of your countrymen that he boasted that he could jump higher and stay up longer than any other person in the country. That, you know, is impossible, because the law of gravitation is the same everywhere."

There is in Heidelberg a very curious old church. It was once a Catholic Church, but now it is both Catholic and Protestant. It is divided into two parts, lengthwise, and on Sundays the one half is occupied by Romanists, while in the other a Presbyterian service is held. Under one roof are Catholics, Presbyterians, Lutherans and Old Catholics. We can't help wishing that the church were large enough for all denominations everywhere to worship in, and that each worshipper might forget his "ism" or his "oxy," and remember the one only important fact that he is a Christian.

It is better to wear a poor vest with a royal heart behind it than to wear a royal vest with a beggar's heart inside.

We are willing to give our sympathy to a good object, and when only that is asked our enthusiasm is intense. When the value of an institution is to be reckoned by words we find it difficult to get words that are large enough to tell all we know, but when it is to be reckoned by cash we find it still more difficult to get a piece of money small enough to express our opinion. When it is merely a matter of rhetoric we are all aglow, but when it is a matter of money we don't, as the African said, "ciprocate worth a cent."—[N. Y. Herald.

EUROPEAN RICH CITY.

Frankfort-on-the-Main now containing a population of 100,000, is reported to be the richest city of its size in the world. If its wealth were equally divided among its inhabitants, every man, woman and child would have, it is said, 20,000 marks, or some $5,000 apiece. There are, as may be supposed, a good many poor people in the town, but the citizens are, as a whole, in unusually favorable circumstances, more so, probably, than the citizens of any other capital in Germany or Europe. It is asserted that there are 100 Frankforters worth from $4,000,000 to $7,000,000 each, and 250 who are worth $3,000,000 and upward. The city is one of the great banking centers of the globe. Its aggregate banking capital is estimated at $200,000,000, more than one-fourth of which the famous Rothschilds, whose original parent house is there, own and control. The annual transactions in bills of exchange are in excess of $100,000,000. Its general trade and manufacturing industries have greatly increased since the formation of the German Empire, to which Frankfort was originally averse, being a free city and opponent of Prussia, until coerced, in July, 1866, by Gen. Von Falkenstein, who entered it at the head of an army and imposed a fine of 31,000,000 florins for its insubordination. Frankfort is such a place for conventions and assemblages of all sorts that it is very apt to be full of strangers, and it is consequently very expensive and by no means pleasant to tarry in.

NEW YORK'S MILLIONAIRES.—It is said and doubtless truly, that in 1830, a little less than 50 years ago, only one citizen of New York, John Jacob Astor, was worth more than $1,000,000. Nothing can better illustrate the growth of wealth here than this fact, which now seems surprising enough. Millionaires are very plenty in these days, so very plenty that they are hardly taken into account. Every few days somebody dies leaving an estate valued at over $1,000,000, and yet the mass of our old inhabitants may not have heard of his name. It has been asserted that there are at present in the metropolis fully 500 men whose property is estimated at $1,000,000 and upward. Such citizens as William H. Vanderbilt, John Jacob Astor, Henry Hilton, George Law, Moses Taylor, Royal Phelps, A. A. Low, Peter Cooper, Alexander and Robert L. Stewart, Horace B. Clafin, E. S. Jaffray, James Gordon Bennett, William H. Appleton, August Belmont, C. P. Huntington, Anthony J. Drexel, Levi P. Morton, James Brown, Amos R. Enos, and dozens of others who might be named, are presumed to be millionaires over and over again. Half a century has made wondrous changes here in other things than private fortunes. Then the city had little more than 200,000 people; now, including adjacent towns and the population properly within a radius of 50 miles of Union square, it includes not far from 2,000,000. Then Chambers street was far up town, the City Hall Park was the principal park, we had no hotels, newspapers, libraries, theatres worthy of the name, we had no ocean-crossing steamers, no modern improvements, few foreign fashions, no "booming" Wall street, not many luxuries, but an amazing amount of public and private honesty. What revolutions 50 years have produced! When we look back through the light of history, it seems as if 1830 must have been all of five centuries ago.—[New York Times.

The Emperor of Germany reads the Bible every morning, but you wouldn't think it to hear what he says in the night when he hears the fire bell ringing and can only find one boot and no matches.—[Burlington Hawkeye.

The oldest reigning sovereign is William I., king of Prussia and emperor of Germany, born in 1797, became king of Prussia, January 2, 1861, and emperor of Germany January 18, 1871. No other reigning monarch was born during (within) the last century.

The sovereign whose reign has been the longest is Dom Pedro, who became emperor of Brazil April 7, 1831. The next longest reign, except in two small German States, is that of Victoria, who has been queen of England since June 20, 1837.

Next in order comes Massar-ed-Deen, Shah of Persia, since September 10, 1848, and Francis Joseph I., emperor of Austria (now Austro-Hungary) since December 2, 1848.

The youngest sovereign is Alphonso XIII. born in 1857, and king of Spain since December 30, 1874. The last king crowned is Humbert I., who became king of Italy January 9, 1878.

Edward III. of England, was the common ancestor of all the present sovereigns of Europe except the Sultan of Turkey and the king of Sweden—and also of the only emperor in the Western Continent. It is noteworthy that Dom Pedro of Brazil is more nearly related to Edward III. than any other ruler being of the 15th generation, while Victoria of England is of the 17th, as are also Alphonso XII. of Spain, William I. of Germany, Christian IX. of Denmark, and Humbert I. of Italy. Lewis, king of Portugal, and Francis Joseph I. of Austro-Hungary, are of the 16th generation from Edward III., and Alexander II. of Russia, Leopold II. of Belgium, and George I. of Greece, are of the 18th.

The longest reign recorded in modern history is that of Louis XIV. of France, which was seventy-two years.

The longest English reign was that of George III. who ruled sixty years. The reigns of Henry III. and of Edward III. were each more than half a century.

Victoria of England and Kuanzon of China, rule over more than one-half the entire population of the globe.

Not only is the gracious queen of England connected by ties of consanguinity with all but two of the sovereigns of Europe, but also with several who would like to be kings, as Chambord of France, who bides his time to be called to the throne as Henry V., and Ferdinand Philippe, Duke of Orleans, who came to America and served for a while on the staff of Gen. McClellan during the late war.

In all America there is but one crowned head, Dom Pedro, ruler of the largest country in South America, and all who witnessed the opening of the Centennial Exhibition, and the starting of the machinery in the great Machinery Hall, saw him standing by the side of the President of the great North American Republic, and both waiting the command of an American mechanic to unthrottle the steam arteries of the giant engine, and set in motion the mazy acres of looms, lathes, spindles, drills, saws, and hundreds of tools and machines, illustrating the industrial industries of the world. There the uncrowned Corlis was king. [N. B. Webster in Educational Notes and Queries.

FORT SUMTER.

(From a Charleston Letter.)

Strolling out after breakfast I made my way to the battery, a pretty little park fronting the Ashley river side of Charleston harbor and where gathered the fair woman and brave men of 1861 to witness the bombardment of Fort Sumter. Standing on the broad sea wall which protects the battery from the tides, grim old Sumter can still be seen in its ruins—a monument of more historic interest than any other in the country. It is now used as the adjunct of a light-house.

Some few guns are still on its battered walls, but are not kept in condition for service. Sullivan's Island, just north of it, on which Fort Moultrie stood, and from which the rebel batteries poured their destructive fire on Sumter, has been transformed into a village for the residence of Charleston aristocrats, a ferry plying between the city and the island for their convenience. Fort Johnson stands on James Island south of and opposite to Sumter. A few troops are stationed here. Castle Pinckney presents the appearance of a terraced lawn. There are no evidences of its former military character remaining.

Notwithstanding the destruction of property by the war, Charleston is still a place of great wealth. The dwellings, with their surroundings, of their merchants attest this beyond question. It certainly is not however a pleasant place of residence. The site is flat, the streets mostly narrow, and there is no outlet for expansion except in the one direction, limited by the Ashley river on the South and the Cooper river on the North. The open space made by these streams and the harbor in front affords air, but furnishes with it an abundance of voracious mosquitoes. There is no reason why it should not be a place where health could be enjoyed, unless sanitary measures are entirely neglected.

To show the profit which the ship-owner may derive from the application of mild steel to a ship, the following example of a trans-Atlantic freight steamer, carrying 3,500 tons (dead weight) is given: If of iron, the hull will weigh about 2,500 tons, and the entire ship will cost about $35,000, or steel, the hull will weigh 2,000 tons, the total cost being $280,000. Reckoning 6 per cent. interest, and 6 per cent. depreciation, etc., on this $30,000 extra cost, we have $2,600 per annum. As an offset to this the writer estimates as an extra freight on the steel over iron vessels 500 tons cargo out and 500 tons cargo back. Assuming ten trips per year, this would give 10,000 tons extra freight, which, at $3 average freight per ton, would give $30,000 extra earnings per year. Deducting from this the $2,600, the balance of $27,400 represents the extra net profit per year that would be earned by the steel over the iron steamship, which is equal to 9 1/2 per cent. on the entire cost of the vessel.

Col. Bridges, the Chief Engineer, says there are about 800 men at work on the road at present. Track is being laid at the rate of two miles a day, and the graders have their part of the work almost to Austin. Five box cars for the road passed through a few days ago and the rails are being forwarded from the Pacific Rolling Mills as fast as they can be made. A new locomotive, which is now being built for the company near San Francisco, will be completed and forwarded to its destination in a week. When the road is completed, the company will start an excursion train to Austin.

Dismissed.

Judge King yesterday morning dismissed the case of State vs. Wm. N. Knox. This is the action brought by the Attorney-General in the Justice Court against Wm. Knox for alleged illegality concerning the insurance laws. In the lower court the defendant was adjudged to pay a fine of $500 or be imprisoned not exceeding six months. The decision of Judge King dismisses the suit and declares the finding of the lower court null and void.

Delayed.

The lightning train from the West was four hours behind time yesterday, having been delayed near Blue Canyon by the snow. Conductor Allen says it was the worst night he ever saw in the mountains. He had to break his way to the nearest station to telegraph for a snow plow to come and liberate his train.

The local train from Virginia was delayed a couple of hours yesterday afternoon by the same impediment.

D. B. BOYD, County Treasurer.

Reno, Washoe County, Nev. January 1st, 1880.

The prayer meeting at the Methodist Church will be continued this and tomorrow evenings.

R. Buckley has purchased his brother's store on Commercial Row.

Close Call.

Day before yesterday the wind blew over the high brick chimney on Hawcroft's house, occupied by Mr. Tredway and family. It fell with a crash, breaking four rafters to splinters and precipitating a beam to the floor, narrowly missing little Susie. Yesterday the damage was repaired and the chimney so firmly bolted that even a Nevada zephyr can't budge it.

Snow.

Several inches of the feathery adorned the face of Mother Nature yesterday morning. It had drifted so much that even the oldest inhabitant couldn't tell its actual depth. From indications we judge there will be more of it, but even this will not make it safe to present that poem for publication.

Dangerously Ill.

Miss Mahoney, the lady who was injured at the "48" hall, has been dangerously ill for the past few days, and last night was not expected to live.

To Resume.

Arrangements are being made whereby the Farmers' Store will be enabled to resume business in a few days.

Mr. Kleinsorg, representing Lindley & Co., and other large creditors, has been appointed Trustee of Winchel & Cunningham's property. No Assignee has been named yet.

Reno girls are getting up a Leap Year party to take place next Monday night at Winchel & Cunningham's hall. The boys are doing their hair up in curl papers and trying to decide what to wear.

Pinniger & Queen, thank their friends and patrons for their liberal patronage the past year, are pleased to be able to announce that they have better facilities than ever for supplying the purest and best of medicines, toilet articles, wines, brandies, and everything kept in first class drug stores. They make a specialty of compounding physicians' prescriptions in a correct and scientific manner from the purest chemicals. Their medicines are of the best quality and they will not be undersold by anybody. j9

The Chronicle's new building has been lithographed, and copies sent to the press.

The elevations of railway lines in different parts of the world are given as follows: The Apennine railway reaches its highest point at an elevation of 2,024 feet above the sea-level. The Black Forest railway ascends to 2,790 feet; the Semmering line, to 2,920 feet; the Caucasus line, to 3,200 feet. The St. Gotthard tunnel is 3,786 feet above the level of the sea. The railway across Brenner rises to 4,485 feet; the Mont Cenis railway, to 4,387 feet; the North Pacific, to 4,420 feet; the Central Pacific, to 7,090 feet; and the Union Pacific, to 8,245 feet. The highest of all is the line across the Andes, which reaches an elevation of 15,686 feet.

A Word to Workers.

If your avocations are mentally or physically laborious, if they subject you to exposure in inclement weather, if they confine you to the desk and are of a nature to involve wear and tear of brain, and in nervous strain, you may occasionally require some renovating tonic. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the article for you. It stimulates the failing energies, invigorates the body and cheer the mind. It enables the system to throw off the debilitating effects of undue fatigue, gives renewed vigor to the organs of digestion, arouses the liver when inactive, which is very often the case with people whose pursuits are sedentary, renews the faded appetite, and encourages healthful repose. Its ingredients are safe, and its credentials, which consist in the hearty endorsement of persons of every class of society, are most convincing. Amtrably it is adapted to the medical wants of workers.

At Goeggel's you will find watches, diamonds and solid jewelry of elegant designs. There is not a more reliable place in town. Every article is warranted as represented.

If you want your watch repaired to give satisfaction go to Davidson's jewelry store, two doors west of Postoffice.

For Sale.—The best beer made in the county is made in Crystal Peak. Leave your orders at J. J. Becker's, where you will be supplied by H. F. Rohrs, agent.

For first-class imported cigars, two for 25 cents, call at John F. Myers' drug store, two doors west of the Postoffice.

Sheets & Wagar, dentists, have removed to their new quarters in Sunderland's brick. All work in their line promptly attended to at reasonable prices.

Goeggel is the best watchmaker in Reno. None but good work leaves his hands.

For a good timepiece go to Goeggel.

A handsome silk or cashmere is just the thing for a lady's present. You can find the best selection and lowest prices at Sol. Levy's.

The cheapest place in Reno for drugs, medicines, and patent medicines, is at Myers' drug store, two doors west of the Postoffice.

In fancy articles ornamental as well as useful for holiday presents, you will find a new endless variety at Sol. Levy's at from 10 cents all the way up to suit your purses.

Sol. Levy has just received direct from New York a complete line of zephyrs, cardboard, mottos, bookmarks, splints, pattern books, fancy emblems, silks and ribbons to match, fans, handkerchiefs, neck scarfs and many other novelties for the holidays, at prices defying all competition.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.—On and after January 1st 1880, until February 1st 1880, the firm of Hagerman & Schooling will sell any or all of their immense stock of groceries, hardware, queensware, notions, &c., at cost for cash. This is done for the purpose of closing out the business of the old concern, preparatory for a change in the firm. All accounts will be closed. All having bills against said firm will please present the same for payment. All those knowing themselves indebted to the firm will please come forward and settle without further notice. d25-2w HAGERMAN & SCHOOLING.

ATTENTION!—The greatest wonder yet discovered in medicine is Mrs. Dr. Howe's celebrated neuralgia and toothache cures. Would you rather suffer the pain of having a tooth drawn than buy a bottle of Mrs. Dr. Howe's toothache medicine that will stop the pain and save the tooth? Mothers should not be without it for their infants; a few drops in a little warm water to swab a teething baby's mouth will instantly relieve the little sufferer. The medicine does not cauterize and is very pleasant. Sold by all druggists.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits aropy sediment will often be found and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milky hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genital urinary organs.
